

Identify Samples for Commercial Use

 Access support in identifying the right provider & the right consent language

Challenge

A researcher needed to identify suppliers who could provide fresh tissue which would be used to isolate cells for the development of a commercially available product.

Scientist.com Solution

Using Scientist.com, the researcher accessed 41 suppliers of fresh human tissue with local or global operation and identified 8 with the skillset to provide fresh and viable tissue. Through the pro-active collection of Informed Consent template documentation, it was easy to review the language provided to the donors at the time of consent and determine that the samples are truly suitable for the intended use.

"[Scientist.com support] has been an incredible help. We had to defer to [Scientist.com Category Director]'s expertise here."